DEATH OF T. M. FOULKS

Well Known Coal Merchant
Died Yesterday Morning
At 3 O'clock.

OF ATTACK OF PNEUMONIA.

Funeral Services Will Be Held
At The Methodist Church
This Morning.

Thomas Marshall Foulks, son of E. L. Foulks, the venerable coal merchant, died at his home at three o'clock yesterday morning, in the 60th year of his age.

Mr. Foulks was taken with pneumonia only a week before and his condition became critical Saturday and grew worse until he died. He had lived in Hopkinsville all of his life, except for a short while that he was in the West when a young man. He was born Nov. 19, 1855, and was unmarried. For many years he had been the active manager of his father's business. His father is now in his 95th year and the son has been his chief reliance and devoted companion. He slept in the room with him and devoted practically all of his time, day and night, to his care and comfort.

Mr. Foulks was a lifelong member of the Methodist church and his funeral services will be held this morning at 10 o'clock at the church, by Rev. Lewis Powell, and the burial will be in Riverside Cemetery.

Besides his father, he is survived by a brother, Rev. Ernest Foulks, of New Mexico, and a sister, Mrs. Sallie Peace, of this city.

The business with which he was identified will be continued by his nephew, Shelby L. Peace, who had for some years been associated with him.

Mr. Foulks was quiet, unassuming and faithful in all his relations. He was an honest, upright christian man and many hearts have been saddened by his death.

HACKMAN'S CLOSE CALL

Wm. Evans Is Run Into By Automobile Driven By
L. B. Lemon.

HE SUFFERS BROKEN NOSE.

Lemon Under Arrest And Trial
Is Set For Next Monday.

In a collision with an automobile Sunday morning about 11 o'clock, in front of the Odd Fellows building on Ninth street, Wm. Evans, the well-known colored hackman for Sneed & Kelly, was thrown to the street with such violence that his nose was broken and he sustained a bad scalp wound and other bruises. The automobile was driven by L. B. Lemon, of Cedar Hill, Tenn., who was placed under arrest. He gave bond and his trial was set for next Monday at 3 o'clock.

Lemon was coming out Virginia street and turned into Ninth. Evans was near the curb line on the north side when run into. Lemon claims that the street was wet and slick and his car skidded and he lost control of it, although he threw on the brakes. Reports differ as to the speed at which he was going. The car was slightly damaged, one lamp and the fender being broken. The tongue to the hack was broken and one horse was slightly hurt.

Evans is confined to his bed at his home, 1017 East 13th street, but will soon be up, although he had a narrow escape.

SOMETHING BRAND NEW

Model School Given By Parent-
Teachers' Association of Virginia St. School.

On Friday night, March 12, at the Union Tabernacle, an entertainment will be given under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers' Association of the Virginia Street School.

This entertainment is to be unusual in character. It is a Model School with the fathers of the Virginia St. School district as pupils. These men are to be dressed as little girls and boys and attend a Primary School. They will go through the regular routine of a First Grade class but without the dullness and monotony that people generally associate with school work. There will be no dull moments in this evening's entertainment.

Just picture twenty grown men, dressed as children, singing the Good Morning songs, reading out of the First Reader, playing the little games of the six-year-old children, and last but not least, shooting the Chutes at recess, and your interest will be at once aroused.

The program after recess will be a practice for Mother's Day and then the star pupils of the class will sing and recite.

The school was organized Thursday night and the work started off in splendid form. This was no doubt due both to the enthusiasm and mental ability of the men who made up the school.

The list of pupils and the program will appear in the next issue of this paper. When you see that, you'll begin to chuckle and get ready to be there for the performance.

The proceeds from this entertainment will be used to start a Domestic Science Department in the Virginia St. School.

The list below, however, will give some idea of what is in store:

Among the little girls are Dr. E. N. Fruit, Dr. Manning Brown, Herbert L. McPherson, Ben D. Hill, Dr. F. P. Thomas, Lewis Elgin.

Among the "boys," some good and others bad, are Dr. C. H. Tandy, Sam Adcock, Claude Clark, Gabe Campbell, Will Hester, Clarence Harris, Roy Kenner, Henry Abernathy, Wal-

REVOKED BY THE COUNCIL

Gambling Outfit Discovered In Room Over A Saloon on 7th Street.

THE COUNCIL TAKES ACTION.

Jitney Bus and Fire Limits
Ordinances Given Final Passage.

The Council met in regular session Friday night and transacted routine business. Reports were received and accounts allowed.

Two ordinances were given their second passage. One provides for a license of $100 on each jitney bus operated in the city and the other extends the fire limits to Second and Fourteenth streets.

The principal matter of interest was the revocation of the saloon license of White & Jackson, who had been doing business on Seventh street since January 1st. Recently a poker playing outfit was discovered in a room over their saloon, alleged to be controlled by them, and they had been cited to appear and show cause why their license should not be revoked. The members of the firm appeared and personally entered a general denial of any knowledge of a violation of the law, but made no further defense.

By a vote of 6 to 1 the license was revoked to take effect March 6. They had paid the license to May 1, 1915.

BURNED TO DEATH

Aged Lady Succumbs After Several Hours Intense Suffering.

Mrs. Elizabeth Scarbrough died Saturday at the Jennie Stuart Memorial Hospital from the effects of burns. She and her son, W. M. Scarbrough, and the latter's ten-year-old son came to this county from Indiana December last. They were enroute to Oklahoma, but decided to remain here a while. They went into camp about four miles northeast of the city on the Madisonville road, where Mrs. Scarbrough's son engaged in getting out cross-ties. Mrs. Scarbrough's clothes caught on fire in some manner in their tent and before assistance arrived she was horribly burned. She had been paralyzed and was unable to help herself when her clothing caught. She was immediately brought here and placed in the hospital, but died shortly thereafter.

Deceased was a widow and was 76 years old.

Her son's hands were badly burned in an effort to extinguish the flames. The remains were interred in the cemetery.

QUESTION BE- FORE GREECE PEACE OR WAR

King Is Exerting His Influence to Maintain Country's Neutrality.

IN OPPOSITION TO PREMIER.

Doubt Expressed Whether Deputies Will Follow Any Other Leader.

London, March 8.—Greece apparently is at the parting of the ways, with her king exerting his influence to maintain the country's neutrality in opposition to Eleutherois Venizelos, the retiring premier and the man to whom Greece owes her revival.

M. Venizelos has announced the resignation of himself and his cabinet, as King Constantine did not approve the policy of the government. In the chamber of deputies he clearly indicated that differences between him and the monarch were over the question of peace and war. He said he had advised the king to select a new premier, M. Zalmis, governor of the national bank, who, he said, "will follow a policy of neutrality which I hope will not endanger our newly acquired territory."

A grand council of ministers was held at Athens under the presidency of King Constantine, and as Venizelos was leaving the palace at its conclusion he was acclaimed by the populace.

While this political dispute is going on in the Greek capital, the allied fleet continues bombarding the forts of the Dardanelles, forcing of which will make great changes in the near east—changes which it is considered none of the Balkan states, and least of all Greece, can afford to treat slightly.

Having damaged two forts on the European side of the narrows previously, the British battleship Queen Elizabeth and others of the allied warships Saturday started a bombardment by indirect fire on the forts on the Asiatic side of the narrows. These forts are offering stubborn resistance. In addition, the Turkish army with modern German guns, is concentrating on the Gallipoli peninsula to oppose any landing, and until it is disposed of, naval experts say the ships will not be safe in the straits.

Bulgaria is said to have been aroused by the attack on the Dardanelles and is looking to the future. It is stated that King Ferdinand is considering a coalition government to direct the affairs of the country through the crisis which is expected.

The only other events reported in the near east are a couple of skirmishes which British forces, advancing from the head of the Persian gulf have had with Turks and tribesmen who had concentrated to oppose them. In these engagements, both sides suffered rather heavy casualties.

Russia has still another battle on her hands. While she is declared to be pressing her offensive in North Poland and eastern Galicia and holding up the Austrians in the Carpathians, the Germans have launched an attack in the region of the Pilica river, south of Warsaw, where a big battle is developing.

The most important news in the west is that the French have returned to the attack in the Vosges, and, according to Paris, have obtained a footing on some of the hills near Munster and are pushing their lines forward.

On To Constantinople.

It is 163 miles from the Aegean sea to the Black sea. The Dardanelles strait is 36 miles, the sea of Marmora 110 miles and the Bosphorus strait 17 miles. The straits are 90 or more feet deep and the sea of Marmora is a mile in depth and 45 miles wide. When the allied fleet gets into this sea, Constantinople will be evacuated and the Turks will disappear from Europe.

HAT AND PONY—The other day a lady came out of an attorney's office near the Court House and started up the street wearing a conspicuous hat of many colors. A small pony belonging to a business man was hitched at the curbstone and as the lady passed close to him the pony made a vicious grab at the hat, seized it in his teeth and tossed it into the street. Not only did he get the hat, but a large "rat" used by the lady in dressing her hair was detached and fell near the hat. The near-tragedy was witnessed by a darkey, who stuck his head in the attorney's door and yelled, "Boss, dat hoss done bit off dat lady's hat and tore out a monf-full of her hair." The attorney hastened to his client and found her excited, but uninjured. The hat was picked up somewhat the worse for its sudden removal, the "rat" was pinned in place and the lady went on her way, leaving the attorney to remonstrate with the owner on the viciousness of his pony. The hat was just like those that make men as mad as the pony was, when they are displayed in front of them in churches and theatres.

GAINES—Col. Loving W. Gaines, the Todd county editor who is running for lieutenant-governor, is having many nice things said about him by the state papers. He has two opponents, Judge Jas. D. Black, who was a candidate for Governor in 1903, and former Senator Newton W. Utley, who was at one time acting Governor while he was President of the Senate. Col. Gaines finds himself with rather hot competition, but he has the advantage of a paper of his own and a friend in every newspaper office in the state.

WHAT TWO CAN DO—The enterprising citizens of the Caledonia neighborhood are entitled to great credit for redeeming the reputation of Trigg county as a wide-awake county. After the Fiscal Court had voted down a proposition to ask state aid dollar for dollar for road improvements, the Caledonia people took the matter into their own hands and subscribed $669 and petitioned the state to give them an equal amount to construct a road in which they are interested. Col. Bill Howell and Mr. Ike Sallee own farms in that neighborhood and have no doubt imbued the citizens with a spirit of enterprise a la Hopkinsville.

JIM AND GABE—Jim Russell and Gabe Long, two Hopkinsville boys, are out in Oklahoma running a hotel in the oil town of Cushing. Jim is the landlord and Gabe is the chief clerk and they make a pair of hustlers who are reflecting credit on their native state. Word comes that they are not only making good but making money.

HENRY—Gov. McCreary has appointed 23 delegates to attend the tenth annual convention of the Navy League of the United States, in San Francisco, March 25 to 27. Col. Jouett Henry, of this city, is one of the delegates, who are among the most prominent men from all parts of the state.

JITNEY—The Chicago News says the word "Jitney" originated from the name of a man named "Jedney" who was a trusty in a reformatory and smuggled tobacco to the inmates, a nickel's worth for a dime. A negro who fell heir to Jedney's trade after his term expired, called a dime plug a "Jitney's worth," until the word was finally in common use as the slang for "nickel." Now the term has spread all over the country and will be in the next dictionary as a newly coined word.

KITTY—The K. I. T. Baseball League is in a bad way since Frank Bassett left. Only the "Doc's" winning and magnetic personality kept it alive last year. The recent election of Gosnell president has been questioned, because he did not receive a majority of the votes of teams in the league. Henderson is so indifferent that she failed to send a representative to a meeting called for Sunday. Paducah has split into two factions that cannot agree. Owensboro and Cairo appear willing but can do nothing.

Borneo Pirates.
Brunel, Borneo, is one of the strangest cities in the world. Once the headquarters of the Borneo pirates, it is a kind of eastern Venice, being built entirely over the water. This remarkable city is the capital of the state of Brunel, Borneo. All the houses are built over the river Limbang, constructed on slender piles made from the Nibong palm, a wood that resists the action of water for many years. The inhabitants of Brunel are Malays, Kadayans, Orang-Buskits, and a few Muruts. They earn their living mostly by trading with other tribes in the interior of Sarawak and British North Borneo. Some of them are very skillful brass workers, and the Brunel women make beautiful cloth, interwoven and embroidered with gold thread. Sago is grown in the valleys near by, and a small quantity of rice is also raised. In the early part of the nineteenth century Brunel was the rendezvous of the dread Borneo pirates, and a market for the slave trade.—Wide World Magazine.

HER FINAL EFFORT

Outdid All Her Former Successes as Matchmaker Extraordinary.

By LAWRENCE ALFRED CLAY.

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

It was said of Aunt Mary Baker of Wellsville, shortly before she died at a good old age, that she had made more matrimonial matches than any five women in the state combined. She was only thirty-five years of age when her husband died, and instead of looking solemn for a year and then marrying again, which she could have done, she said to herself: "No, no. There is work to be done and my mission shall be to do it."

Did she mean that she was going into the cause of temperance? That she was going to smash show windows and set houses afire in the cause of woman's rights? That she was going to work up a taste for mutton instead of missionary in the cannibal islands? That she was going to furnish a hundred hucksnaws and a like number of sawbuds and coax the tramps of America to take off their coats and get up a sweat?

Nothing of the sort. She wasn't even going to give a turkey dinner to one hundred poor families and give half of them a colic from overeating.

Aunt Mary's mission was to be the bringing together of loving hearts and stand by them until a minister had made one heart out of the two. The hearts wouldn't be loving hearts exactly until brought face to face, as it were. They would first be lonely and discouraged hearts.

She didn't propose to meddle with the male and female who stood a fair chance with their natural attractions, but to search out those on whom nature had vented her spite by giving them homely faces, lop shoulders, protruding teeth, howlegs and other handicaps. It was not only a merciful mission, but a glorious one.

Aunt Mary was called home at the age of seventy-two, and the number of matches she had arranged since she took up the business averaged two per year. She lived with relatives, who found no fault with her whim, and she drove about the country with an old horse and huggy looking for despairing hearts. Many a widow would have been glad of her assistance, but she would not give it. When she had heard of a homeless old maid, living from five to twenty miles away, Aunt Mary would drive to the address and introduce herself.

"I have come to arrange a marriage for you."

"But I am so homely that no man ever even walked home from prayer meeting with me," might be the reply.

"Yes, you are very, very homely, but I hope to find a husband for you. He will be as homely as you are, but you must expect that. Homely men and women make the best husbands and wives. You look to me to be a good-hearted woman."

"They say I am."

"Are you quick-tempered?"

"No."

"Good at housework?"

"I am told so."

"How about romance?"

"I've got over expecting a prince to come along."

"And the age is about thirty-five?"

"About that, but this is making a business of getting married, isn't it?"

"My dear," replied Aunt Mary, "if you were only eighteen you would fall in love with a young man because he wore a cute necktie. A youth of twenty would fall in love with you because you sang alto. To make a sensible marriage you must mingle business with it, at least enough to know how the first month's rent is to be paid."

"But who is the man?" would be asked.

"I don't know yet, but I shall find one for you."

And good Aunt Mary would go driving about the country asking: "Do you happen to know of a homely widow or old batch?"

"How homely must he be?"

"Well, homely enough to scare a cow out of the road. If he isn't so very homely in the face then he must have howlegs and be lumpy-backed."

And she would hear of a man that might fit the bill, and she would trail him down and talk to him, and it generally ended in a marriage. It was said that she had only three failures in all those years, and one of them because an old maid fell into a well and froze to death.

At length Aunt Mary set out to make her last match. She didn't know that it was to be her last, but she realized that she had grown old. She had run across an old forty-year-old but for homeliness beat all who had come before. She took a sensible view of the situation, however.

"With my homely face I could not expect a man to marry me unless he wanted to exhibit me as a side show freak," the maid admitted.

"Then you are aware of your looks?"

"When I can drive the pigs out of the garden by merely showing my face at a broken window pane, hadn't I ought to be aware?"

"But it isn't the handsomest wife that makes none the happiest. Nature gives every man and woman a feeling that they want a home. Even the birds have that feeling—a homely bird as well as a handsome one. Some man is waiting for you to help make a home."

the Judgment day arrived!" laughed the old maid.

As Aunt Mary had about resolved that this should be her last case, and as her eyes told her that this was the homeliest woman in the United States, her pride as a match-maker was aroused. She had heard of an extraordinarily homely man fifty miles away, and started to drive there. When twenty miles from home she met a man in a buggy and he called out to her:

"Hello, Aunt Mary—I was bound for your house."

"Wanted to see me, eh?"

"I did and do. Two years ago I married a girl for her good looks. She didn't know as much as a cat about housework, and she was bad tempered and lazy. In six months she eloped with a drummer."

"And you pursued them and killed him?" queried Aunt Mary.

"Well, I never heard that I did. If I had pursued it would have been to thank them both! I applied for a divorce instead and got it."

"And now you want another wife?"

"Yes, but not a good-looking one. I don't want her even plain looking. Indeed, I want her homely."

"My mission, as you know, has been to bring two homely people together, but—"

"I want you to make an exception in my case. I am a farmer, and live at the crossing of two prominent highways. There is not an hour in the day that a tin peddler, chicken buyer or agent of some sort or other is not coming to the door. I know that the one who ran away with the drummer had sixteen offers to elope before he came along."

"And you want a wife that will scare everybody away?"

"That's it."

"Well, I have on hand and ready for immediate delivery an old maid that will either delight your heart or scare you out of the county. I have seen the homeliest in the land, and she takes the medal over all."

"Has she lost a leg or an arm?"

"No."

"Good-tempered?"

"A homely woman invariably is."

"Know how to bake beans?"

"I am sure she is a good housekeeper."

"One more question," said the man.

"Does she snore?"

"I will guarantee that she does not."

He then told Aunt Mary all she wanted to know and repeat to the other party, and a date was arranged for the meeting.

"Remember, if she isn't mighty homely it's no marriage!" warned the man as they parted.

"You'll have to go to Africa to find a homelier one!" laughed Aunt Mary. The date came for the meeting. The man was on time. Aunt Mary was there to make the introduction. The couple shook hands and then stood back and looked at each other. A shade of disappointment settled on each face. Aunt Mary was quick to observe it.

"Well, isn't she homely enough?"

"Why, she's a good-looking woman," was the reply. "You led me to believe that she was a fright to see."

"And she led me to believe that you were a fine looking man!" added the old maid.

Aunt Mary sat down from the weakness of her knees. She had never met such a case before. Three or four minutes went past and then she loosened a bit of pink ribbon pinned to a curtain and held it up.

"What's the color?"

"Green!" was the prompt reply of one.

"Blue!" was promptly replied by the other.

Aunt Mary was saved. They were color blind.

"Well, I did want a fine looking husband," said the old maid, "but they say a man with a face like a squash is always a good man."

"And I didn't want another handsome wife, but I'm no kicker," added the man. "I'll get a shotgun and a bulldog, and I guess we can keep the fellers away."

They had the thing turned about, but they married and have lived very happily, but the husband wonders now and then why even a chicken buyer never calls at the house.

Wastage and the Consumer.

Over supply cuts prices, especially when the product is perishable. But, the glutting of city markets with country produce does not lower the cost of living. On the contrary, the consumer pays for the necessary wastage. Co-operation among farmers and co-ordination in distribution is therefore as much to the advantage of the city dweller as of the producer. This is the moral pointed by Doctor Meeker before the American Economic association. The unorganized condition of the farming industry is one of the causes of the high cost of living. The agricultural departments of nation and state are busy teaching the farmer how to raise bigger crops, how to secure better yields of garden truck. This alone is teaching him how to lose more money and how to increase the cost of living in the city. When these governmental agencies teach the farmers how to market their crops we will have the apparent contradiction of higher profits for the farmer and lower cost of living for the city folk.—New York Evening Mail.

WOULD BE SOME PUNISHMENT

Congressman Had Right Idea, Unless It Came Under Heading of "Cruel and Unusual."

Congressman Thomas U. Slason of Mississippi smiled when the topic turned to the proper punishment for a negligent husband. He said he was reminded of a case of that kind.

Some time ago a married man ran away with a silly young girl, and after an exciting chase the elopers were captured and returned home. Naturally the escapade was the one theme of conversation in the small town where they lived, and everybody in the corner store had his own idea as to what the husband's punishment should be.

One suggested a life sentence, another suggested that 90 years in the penitentiary would be the proper thing, while a third spoke eloquently of tar and feathers.

"You are all wrong," finally remarked a little man sitting in the corner. "I have a scheme that beats all of yours a mile down the boulevard."

"What is it?" chorused the crowd, quickly glancing at the speaker. "You wouldn't hang him, would you?"

"No," was the quiet rejoinder of the little man. "I would turn him over to his wife's mother."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

THAT TIRED FEELING

Do You Continually Feel Sluggish, Disinterested?

If you do, it is probably caused by your liver. When the liver fails to perform its functions properly, the system becomes clogged with poisonous matter, that weighs you down mentally and physically.

The liver gets out of order very easily, and if neglected, chronic trouble usually results. Don't delay if you feel badly. You knowingly lay yourself open to life long pain, when you allow yourself to continue in a run down condition. Cure yourself quickly and harmlessly with the natural vegetable remedy, LIV-VER-LAX. All animals, whether quadrupeds or birds, that feed in herds are said to place sentries on the outskirts of their party. FERNS NEED THE SUNLIGHT

Idea That They Must Be Confined Always to Darkness is a Mistaken One.

The prevalent idea that ferns must have no sun is a wrong one. Ferns will live in the shade, and there are some sorts, of course, that are scorched by the sun. But most ferns that are cultivated in the house like a good deal of sunlight, and never do their best without it.

Window boxes where ferns are growing should be sprinkled lavishly twice a day. If the leaves are dry and dusty they should be well shaken before sprinkling.

If possible, get the earth with which to fill your boxes from an old hotbed—rich loam and rotted manure about half and half.

Failing that, take any which is handy and enrich it with ammonia, and bone meal, mixed thoroughly. A heaping teaspoonful of manure is enough for a six-inch pot of earth. Neither must be kept directly on the roots of the plants. Liquid fertilizer, likewise, must be kept off the roots, stem and leaves. Make a hole at one side of a trench just inside the pot rim, pour in the fertilizer and let it sink, then put back the earth.

FROM A DISORDERED MIND

Premotions the Product of Lax Mental Discipline—Suggestion a Great Factor.

The belief in premonitions is based upon superstition, suggestion, and fear. Premotions are indicative of lax mental discipline, and serve to show that the mind is permeated with fear and dominated by dread.

People are more subject to premonitions on dark and dismal days. They are also common in the spring and in the fall. This particular form of dread is also greatly increased by suggestion. I well recall a case of a suburban wreck a few years ago, in which the front coach was badly demolished, and I noticed that for months and even years after this accident, that the passengers studiously avoided that front coach. There was an immediate decrease in the number of people who would allow themselves to ride in that car. The soil and the seed for suggestion are both needed to produce premonitions.—Exchange.

Jones Stock Sale

Putting $32,000.00 worth of merchandise in an already crowded house is some job. Early and late, day in and day out, fifty busy people are sorting, marking and arranging this stupendous stock of splendid merchandise and we will be ready for you March 11th.

And don't let the men think this is a woman's sale only. One of the biggest items of the whole list is for men only---1248 shirts, made by the celebrated Star Shirt Company---only one other shirt made in America as good as the "Star," there are none any better. These shirts are all new Spring patterns, and were made for Southern merchants who cancelled them on account of bad conditions in the cotton states. They are worth $2.00, $2.50 and $3.00, in the JONES STOCK SALE we throw them out in two lots---at $1.15 and $1.39. No greater shirt opportunity has ever come to the men of Hopkinsville.

At 59 Cents we offer pick of 496 Men's fine Madras Shirts, new Spring patterns, regular $1.00 value. Let no man think he can wait two or three days to come to this sale. There is no luck in leisure and these shirts will fade away the first day.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE WIVES

When the woman knows how to cook there is seldom a divorce, says a Kansas writer, who finds that in 4,500 marriages of girls who had been given domestic science training in state institutions there was not a divorce. And this is not confined to Kansas. Any divorce judge will testify that the wives who can cook a meal fit for the gods are forgiven many other shortcomings.

An in spite of all the theorists whose arguments fill the pages of our magazines and newspapers, the place for the normal woman is at the head of her own household, and a woman's first duty is to maintain a good home for her husband and children. Her husband is working for the money to maintain this home and her children need the example of the home to keep them the best citizens of the state. If a woman can accomplish this, and at the same time attend to outside affairs, well and good, but her home ought to come first.

Mighty few men will stop at a saloon if there is a comfortable home, with a good reading light, easy chairs and good food waiting him. Men are tired after work and want relaxation, and if they cannot find it at home they turn to alcohol as a substitute.

The most necessary thing about a home is the food that is served there. It need not be expensive, nor elaborate if it is well cooked. Then, too, it is not the big things that drive men and women to the divorce courts. The big things are given on the bill of complaint, but nine times out of ten it is the petty, irritating matters that jar and jir until they have worn away the resisting power. But if a woman is busy about her house and in her kitchen the small things have not so much weight. She cannot think of recipes and brood over fancied troubles at the same time. And, as for the man, if the woman falls short of his ideals, he says: "Well, Mary doesn't care about the war, and I have to get some one in to play bridge, but she serves the meals, and we have dandy luncheons after we are through playing." If you want a girl to be happily married, teach her to cook.

IN MEMORIAM

A Grain of Corn and a Grain of Truth.

Lines on the death of an English sparrow that fell dead, after seeing an automobile pass.

BY THE BIRD POET.

An automobile passed by one day,
A hungry sparrow sat on a tree,
He flew to the ground, and looking around
Chirped--nothing for me, nothing for me.

A farmer's team passed next that way.

He cried, what is that I see?
Assure as you are born, there's a grain of corn.

Ah! this is for me, this is for me.

A moral to scratchers, don't scratch in vain.

Scratch in the sunshine, scratch in the rain.

Don't judge things by the way they go.

There is many a grain behind a team that's slow.

So in life's battle for me, and for you,

He wins, who keeps scratching all the way through.

Home, Where the Hat Is.

Several sages have given their opinion on what constitutes a man's home. One remarked it was where the heart was, but a New York judge has just given a judicial ruling it is where the hat is. In his decision the surrogate declared home is not a term of art and by custom of this country hotels in New York are very often the "homes" of people who for various reasons prefer living in them to the more burdensome occupation of private dwellings or apartments.

In the Carpathians are to be found the finest stags in Europe, excelling even the Bavarian stags in weight and strength of antler, and far larger than any Highland red deer. It carried a head of 18 points, the antlers at their greatest length measuring 52 inches.

Market for Everything.

"Is there such a thing as second-hand brass band instruments? Why, certainly," said a musical instrument man. "Why shouldn't there be? You can buy second-hand yachts, pianos, second-hand bricks, second-hand anything on earth; why not second-hand brass band instruments? How do they come to be offered second-hand? Why, just as anything else does. Somebody gives up using an instrument and then he sells it; or somebody wants to buy a better instrument and then he sells the old one. And for all these second-hand instruments there is a market. They may be sold to beginners or to players, and such a thing has been heard of a new band equipping itself throughout with second-hand instruments for the sake of economy."

Granted Queer Favor.

"I have a great favor to ask you," said a well-dressed man to the manager of a New York theater. The manager looked him over. "Shoot," he said. "Two friends of mine will visit the show tonight," said the wind-nut. "They think I am the manager of this company. Will you let me stand at the door--just as if I were manager--until they come up?" The manager obliged. The man stood at the door for a few minutes. Suddenly his face lighted up and he dashed forward with hand outstretched. "So glad to see you in my house at last," said he. The couple halted, chatted with him for a second and passed inside. The "wind-nut" pulled his coat over his thin shoulders and started towards Broad way.

COLDS

An up-to-date remedy for colds. That is what Peruna is. In successful use over 50 years.

Colds are caught in many ways: Illy ventilated rooms; rooms that have direct draughts; crowded rooms; damp houses; stuffy school rooms; offices illy heated.

A dose of Peruna at the right time, at the first symptom of cold, before the bones begin to ache, before the sore throat manifests itself, or the cough, or the discharge from the nose, just a dose or two of Peruna before these symptoms begin is generally sufficient. But after the cold is once established with the above symptoms prominent, a bottle of Peruna, or maybe two, will be necessary.

REMINDER OF ROMAN GLORY

Old French Village Reveals Thoroughness of the One-Time Rulers of the World.

A few miles north of Marseilles, and within easy walk of the tram to Aix-en-Provence, lies a typical Provencal village that tourists usually miss, writes a correspondent of the Wide World Magazine. It was founded by the Romans during their occupation of the south of France, and is built in accordance with the custom of that time. The houses appear to be perched on top of each other, but on closer inspection are found to be built on ledges on a hillside. This hill is the most interesting feature of the place. What appears as a solitary crag is in reality a castle, the rooms, fortifications, etc., being cut out of the solid rock and forming a fortress practically impregnable in those days. At the side of the castle is a round tower, about forty feet in height and seven feet in diameter. The interior of this tower acted as the "wireless station" in Roman times. It consisted of a series of pigeon lofts, from which the birds, bearing messages, were sent direct to Rome. The whole of the interior was constructed of a very hard cement, which, with the wear of ages, is now slowly decaying, and only one perfect "loft" now remains. There was accommodation for about two hundred and fifty pairs of birds, together with an abundant water and grain supply, the attendants being quartered in the castle.

AND PLAIN IS THE MORAL

Choose Your Friends Wisely, or the Consequences May Be More Than Painful.

A man quarreled with his friend "I have been much deceived in you," said the man.

And the friend made a face at him and went away.

A little after, they both died and came together before the great justice of the peace. It began to look black for the friend, but the man for a while had a clear character and was getting into good spirits.

"I find here some records of a quarrel," said the justice, looking in his notes. "Which of you was in the wrong?"

"He was," said the man. "He spoke ill of me behind my back."

"Did he so?" said the justice. "And pray how did he speak about your neighbors?"

"Oh, he had always a nasty tongue," said the man.

"And you chose him for your friend," cried the justice. "My good fellow, we have no use here for fools."

So the man was cast in the pit, and the friend laughed out aloud in the dark and remained to be tried on other charges.—From the Fables of Robert Louis Stevenson.

Fail To Get In Applications For State Aid For Roads.

Only 16 of the 120 counties failed to ask for state aid for road building, on the basis of dollar for dollar, to be spent by county and state.

The mountain counties failing to apply were: Powell, Jackson, Lee, Harlan, Owsley, Breathitt, Wolfe, Perry, Floyd, Magoffin, Morgan and Pike.

Henderson and Crittenden counties are the only two in Western Kentucky which did not apply. Henderson has to spend $10,000 on a tuberculosis sanatorium, and is short of funds for 1915. No other northern counties in the State neglected to apply, and only three, Green, Metcalfe and Cumberland, in the southern part are left out.

After the Fiscal Court of Trigg refused to make an appropriation to take advantage of the State Aid Road Fund, a number of citizens of the Caledonia neighborhood subscribed $669 and asked the county to make application for an equal amount from the State fund, which was made Wednesday.

Pheasants For Christian.

J. Quincy Ward, executive agent of the Kentucky Fish and Game Commission, has notified local sportsmen that a flock of English ring-neck pheasants will be sent to Christian to be turned loose for the purpose of stocking the county with these game birds. In his letter Mr. Ward says that these birds were secured from one of the largest estates in England and will be shipped from Liverpool in a few days and as soon as they arrive they will be sent to the various counties in the state where they are to be placed. There is a fine of $25 to $100 for killing them. Every man upon whose farm the birds are liberated will be required to pledge himself to look after and protect them in every way and report promptly if they are killed, and, if possible, who killed them.

Last year's apple crop of the United States approximated 86,300,000 barrels.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. The cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

FAIRM STOCK

DEMAND FOR WORKING MULES

Three-Year-Old Animals Wanted in Every Market in Country—Good Grade Mares May Be Used.

Somewhat or other the demand for working mules of good build and weight stays as strong and as keen in these last few years as ever. Three-year-old mules are wanted in every horse and mule market in the country, and in spite of the increasing number of motor trucks and other transportation methods, the market shows no inclination to forget the mule.

As a side line on the 40, 50 or 160-acre farm you can't beat mule raising. Of course the conditions have to be favorable. You have to have a pretty fair bunch of mares, not too small and of fairly good conformation. There should be a few good jacks in the neighborhood, and there usually are, at least in riding distance. Good grade mares and a pure bred jack make about the right combination to finally result in good money from the mules.

Where there are no good jacks in the district, four or five or six men can very easily club together and buy a good animal. If they really want to go into the mule raising business to get all the profit coming to them they will be able to get enough money raised to get a good jack.

He should then be insured and given the proper handling. By the right kind of handling he can be made to be of service not only for the mares owned by his owners, but he may be stood for mule service and made to earn his keep in that way.

A mature jack's first year of active service ought to enable him to serve something like sixty mares, and later on he ought to be able to serve from seventy-five to eighty without any difficulty. In a few seasons the jack of quality will be able to pay for himself and make his own keep as well as serving all the mares of his owners.

HANDY GATE FOR A PASTURE

Board Arranged Between Two Stout Posts Will Keep Hogs In and Let Other Stock Out.

A response to a query for a plan for a gate to keep hogs in a pasture and permit other stock out is given by C. F. Hewitt of Louisville county, Iowa, in Wallace's Farmer, as follows: Have two stout posts in the fence row six or eight feet apart. Board up about sixteen inches high; then put a stout piece (a round pole is preferable) on top. Now set two short posts about eighteen inches from the fence on the side where the hogs are to be kept. These posts should be about sixteen inches high, and they also should have a pole on top, making it the same height as the first, or about twenty-one or twenty-two inches high. If the cattle are large, this might be made two feet high. The pole that is fastened to the fence posts should be on the side next to the short fence, so when the hogs go in between they cannot jump over the fence.

RIGHT PRECAUTIONS TO USE

In Case of Outbreak of Hog Cholera Everything Should Be Done to Prevent Spread of Disease.

When cholera breaks out on the farm, the dogs should be tied up—the live stock should be shut out of the hog pen, and the wagon wheels should be disinfected so as not to carry the disease from this farm to the neighbors, or even to scatter the germs along the road. The farmer should not leave the infected pig pen without a thorough dipping of his shoes, rubbers or rubber boots in a solution of water and creolin. Lime should be scattered in the buildings which are occupied by the sick pigs.

Every pig or hog that dies should be buried at least four feet deep in the ground or should be burned. A small trench open at both ends and covered with pieces of iron or with a piece of hog fence will make a good oven on which to burn all hogs that die of cholera.

The hog wallow should be eliminated and a hog bath tub made to take its place. Fill it with clean water and put in a small amount of coal tar dip. The pigs can be fed wood or coal ashes with a little sulphur scattered over them.

Value of Sweet Clover.

Sweet clover cut at the proper stage has a high feeding value, resembling alfalfa in this, as it does in appearance. Cattle and sheep do not eat it as readily at the start as is the case with other hay, owing to the peculiar aroma of the plant, but those who have tried it out thoroughly claim that they soon become accustomed to it and eat it as readily as they do

Stopped Those Pains.

The DAIRY

WINTER COMFORT FOR COWS

Good Shelter Should Be Provided and Liberal Supply of Feed Laid in to Keep Up Milk Flow.

This is the season of the year when the dairy farmer should take steps to make his cows comfortable during the winter months. An uncomfortable cow is not a good producer. Good shelter should be provided and a supply of the right kind of feed laid in, so that the milk flow will not suffer at a time when the market prices are the best. This subject is discussed by R. M. Washburn of the Minnesota College of Agriculture, as follows:

"Cold winds and rains are costly. They chill the cow, just as they would a warm stove, entailing the burning of more fuel. To avoid this the farmer should provide protection early.

"The ration at this transition period between summer pasturing and winter feeding is important. Any cow that has been giving milk since last spring will decrease her flow rapidly if she is not fed liberally. The result will be a greatly reduced profit from the dairy herd during the winter months.

"We are nearing the season when butterfat brings the highest price. Farmers will recognize the wisdom of keeping up the milk flow through this period.

"I do not advocate the feeding of much grain at this time. What is fed should merely supplement a ration composed largely of late grasses, pumpkins, soft-shelled squash, roots and small potatoes.

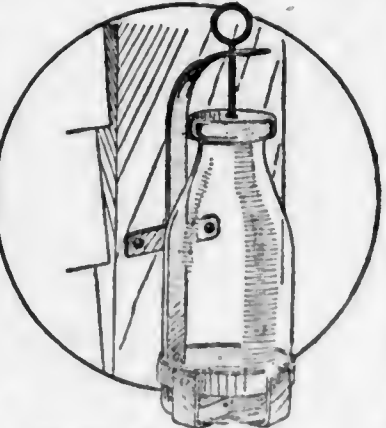

"Many of the farmers do not believe that the small potatoes are worth picking up, not realizing that five pounds of potatoes are worth as much as one pound of grain. They may be brought in and put on the barn floor, where, if they are covered with hay to keep off the frosts and prevent light freezing, they can be kept for a long time, and will take the place of a considerable amount of expensive grain or mill feed. Frozen potatoes, however, should not be fed to cows. They react unfavorably on the digestive tract.

"Herd the cows on the young clover in the wheat and oats stubble is a good plan. They will get much of value from this young growth."

rain from reaching the milk, should the ordinary paper stopper of the bottle be displaced, and also helps to hold the bottle secure, so that dogs and cats cannot dislodge it.—Popular Mechanics.

SUCCULENT FEEDS FOR COWS

Apples and Potatoes Should Be Fed in About Same Amounts as Turnips or Beets—Start Slowly.

Apples and potatoes are both good succulent foods for cows if fed properly. When these products are fed to cows they are usually very cheap, and people feed them too liberally. They should be fed in about the same amounts as turnips or beets. Start in with a small amount, just a few, and gradually increase till each cow is eating a peck at a feed. You could feed them twice a day if desired, but don't feed more than half a bushel daily.

Fed in this way they will not dry up your cows, but will tend to increase the flow. Where people have had trouble is by feeding entirely too many apples or potatoes at a feed. This gets the cow out of condition and, of course, decreases the flow of milk. Care must be taken in feeding apples or potatoes, or the cows are liable to choke. There is little danger when fed in their stalls, but if fed in the lot, one cow drives another, causing her to swallow the apple be-

MEN IN MIND IN HOPKINSVILLE

People of Prominence In The Pearl City of The Penny-royal.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH NO. 74.

One of Hopkinsville's Hustling Young Commercial Travelers.

The public has no idea of the great number of traveling men, sometimes called "drummers", who make their homes in Hopkinsville. There are not less than 100 of them who are prominent in the business affairs of the city. There are no better or more wide-awake citizens than these arteries of trade, connecting Hopkinsville with the rest of the world and attracting attention wherever they go to their home town. No history of the city's business men could be complete without mention of the traveling men. They represent practically every line of trade, some being on the road for Hopkinsville houses, others for large wholesale houses that allow them to make their headquarters here and still others traveling for their own business. In this class stands Clyde H. Whaley, the young merchandise broker whose home is at 911 Walnut street. He was born in Wisconsin in 1883 and first came to Hopkinsville ten or twelve years ago as a traveling representative for a wholesale house. Hopkinsville in time got to be the favorite town in his territory and the cause came to light when he married a Hopkinsville girl and in 1906 made this his headquarters. A few years ago he decided to go into business for himself and established his present business.

CLYDE H. WHALEY.

He handles many lines, including Toledo Scales, American Slicing Machines, Henderson's New Orleans Sugar and numerous factory lines.

Mr. Whaley is a young man of most pleasing personality. His smiling face is a familiar one on the streets and he is always on the hustle for business in and out of the city. Hopkinsville is fortunate in having him as a citizen. We need more like him.

German Prisoners.

Members of the Prussian diet who have been visiting prisoner camps have received information that at present there are 781,000 war prisoners interned in Germany, an increase since the end of 1914 of more than 200,000 men.

SUDDEN DEATH

Of Miss Nellie Caruthers at Lafayette.

Miss Nellie Caruthers died at Lafayette yesterday morning at 8:30 o'clock, after an illness of a few days.

She was a sister of Mr. R. J. Caruthers of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Caruthers and their daughter, Miss Kathleen, at once left for Lafayette. Miss Caruthers was taken ill last Thursday, but she was not considered in a critical condition and her death was a surprise to her relatives here. She was a member of the Lafayette Methodist church and her funeral services will be held this afternoon by the pastor of her church and the interment will be in the cemetery at Lafayette.

NINETY-SIX BODIES TAKEN FROM MINES

All of Forty-seven Men Rescued on Saturday in Good Physical Condition.

Hinton, W. Va., March 8.—The recovery of eleven bodies Sunday brought the death toll of the Layland mines to ninety-six. It is estimated twenty more dead are buried beneath slate falls and debris. All of the forty-seven men rescued after having lived four days and four nights without food and drink, were reported to be in good physical condition and all are expected to recover.

Nashville's Jitney Bus.

The Jitney bus has come to Nashville's streets, and a ride in a well-maintained automobile is possible for five cents. The Nashville Jitney bus association has only one car on the streets thus far. It has no passengers and has a fast schedule. A broad band of yellow and red around its body and a small sign in front proclaims the auto to be one of the new nickle cars. This lone car is running out Broadway and West End avenue. It did a thriving business all day Sunday with churchgoers.—Tennessean.

Fitzpatrick-Matthews.

A Lexington man in the Courier-Journal says: "Mr. B. J. Matthews of Lexington, announces the engagement of his daughter, Sue Dorothy Matthews, to Walter Winston Fitzpatrick, of Somerset, Ky., and Clemson College, South Carolina. Mr. Matthews is charming and popular, and Mr. Fitzpatrick is well known here. He is a graduate of State University in the class of '13 and is at present holding a responsible position as state dairyman of South Carolina."

Good Start.

The attendance at the Pan-American International Exposition for its first week was 618,000. According to the official statement, the attendance at the Chicago Exposition for the same period was 257,036 and at St. Louis 325,141.

The grand stand of the Madisonville fair was burned last fall and it has been announced that the stand will not be rebuilt by the owner of the grounds. The people who want to see a fair will have to come to the great Pennyroyal fair next fall.

Damage Suit of Butler vs. Forgy is on Trial.

The damage suit of J. F. Butler against W. E. Forgy was on trial yesterday. The plaintiff sues for $10,000 damages for alleged slanderous language uttered in a conference in a law office in this city. The defense is that the language used was true.

NO MALICE IN ELEPHANTS

Good Nature Characteristic of Jungle Monster, Says Traveler Who Should Know.

In 1905 I found myself near the Inza, river, an important affluent of the Kulu, flowing through a fertile region which is infested by herds of elephants, a source of constant anxiety and frequent losses to the agricultural inhabitant, writes E. Torday in the Wide World Magazine. In a country like this, where he is not hunted by man in the ordinary way and the only means for his destruction are cruel but easily avoided pitfalls, the elephant is decidedly good natured. We were told by the mission boys at Pana that in the rainless season, when their usual haunts are dried up, the elephants frequently wander near the river and attack the plantations. The natives try to drive them away with sticks. "But it is no good hitting them or throwing stones at them," I was told; "they generally refuse to take any notice. Sometimes a mother with a calf will turn on us and chase us for 100 yards or so, but no real harm is meant and the animal is not really angry, for all the signs of fury—spread ears and raised trunk—are absent. All the same we do run away, although we know there is no danger. One day a boy fell when thus pursued, but the elephant only threw sand on him."

As I have myself seen a man just pushed out of the way by one of those good-natured monsters, when the animal had more than enough provocation to kill him, I was inclined to accept this account as true.

USE OF SIGHT ON A RIFLE

Necessary Because Bullet Cannot Be Made to Travel on a Straight Line.

The average person, if asked to explain why a rifle is sighted, would probably be unable to do so beyond some vague remark about taking correct aim.

Sights are necessary because a bullet does not travel in a straight line, but, under the influence of gravity and friction, begin to drop almost as soon as it leaves the muzzle. Thus the bullet of our service rifle (Lee Enfield) drops six inches in the first 100 yards, but when it has gone 200 yards it will have dropped not 12 inches, but two feet. The drop increases by leaps and bounds with the distance. Were there no sights on the rifle and you wanted to hit a mark at 200 yards, you would clearly have to aim two feet above it.

This would be awkward, for you would lose sight of the object aimed at, to say nothing of the difficulty of correctly estimating a distance of two feet at 200 yards.

The sights of a rifle enable you to keep your eye on the mark, although the muzzle of the rifle is actually pointed above it. The moving slide of the back sight enables you automatically to point the muzzle just so many feet above the mark aimed at as is necessary to counteract the known drop of the bullet at various ranges.—London Answers.

Change of Denomination.

The collector of bridge tolls in a Scottish border town was quite a character in his way. Upon one occasion a large party of American clergymen, who were visiting Scotland, came to survey the classic Borderland. The end of the bridge bears a notice that not more than ten people are allowed on it at once, but the clerics chose to disregard this, and went on in a body.

The collector saw them from his little sentry box, and rushed out. "Back off that bridge!" he shouted, but unused to such tones the clerics pressed on.

"Back off that bridge!" shouted the collector again.

"But, my good man," expostulated the foremost, "do you know that we are members of the Pan-Presbyterian congress?"

"Ye may call yourselves Pan-Presbyterian or pot-Presbyterian," roared the collector, "but if ye no gang aff that bridge ye'll be a' Baptists in two meenits."

One Dog Tax the State Has to Pay.

"What," asks the Mexican hairless philosopher of the Topeka Capital, "has become of the watchdog?" And here is the Emporia Gazette's answer: "He is, so far as we can make out from a cursory glance at the Kansas papers, making arrangements to come to Topeka during this legislature as 'the watchdog of the treasury.' And he isn't much of a dog—as dogs go. This state has paid more dog taxes on watchdogs of the treasury than the nation has paid on its dogs of war; personally we have a low opinion of all dogs—that grow less than four legs!"—Kansas City Star.

BUSINESS NOW ON UPGRADE

Situation In The Agricultural District Is Very Satisfactory.

ECONOMY IS NOW HELPING.

Cotton Belt Only Place Where There Are Not Good Indications.

New York, March 8.—Home business conditions are certainly becoming more satisfactory. There is no doubt that domestic trade conditions are generally sound. The number of unemployed is large; railroad earnings and bank clearing confirm trade inactivity, and the spirit of economy has almost everywhere supplanted the spirit of extravagance. Without the war we should have probably had to face some reaction, and the wonder is that depression has not been worse. Throughout our agricultural regions, there is little cause for complaint; the situation in the grain districts being generally satisfactory owing to the large foreign demand and good prices for all food products. The cotton belt is an exception, inasmuch as it feels the reduction of foreign demand as well as the lower prices which growers are forced to accept.

Victory and Defeat.

The appointment of Joe Moseley as postmaster at Hopkinsville, which was confirmed by the United States Senate yesterday, was a big victory for A. O. Stamey, who retired as Congress man yesterday, as well as the second patronage knockout in a month for J. C. W. Beckham, who today enters upon his term as United States Senator, the other being his futile effort to prevent the appointment of L. T. Doty as postmaster at Owensboro. Doty being a close friend of Congressman Campbell Cantrell. Stamey never let up in the fight to land his faithful friend in the Hopkinsville post-office and he was probably as happy as Joe Moseley when the news came that the Senate had confirmed the appointment. Postmaster-elect Moseley received the news in Louisville and he was given the "clutch hand" on all sides.—Times.

Ended It All.

The body of Lillian May Cook, a pretty eighteen-year-old stenographer for whom the police of 3 states have been searching, was found in a lonely part of West Rock Park, New Haven, Conn. She had shot herself to death with a revolver taken from the office of the Mayo Radiator company, that city, where she had been employed. Virginius J. Mayo brought Miss Cook from Boston to work in his office.

Situation More Serious.

Louisville, Ky., March 8.—Discovery of 105 new cases of foot and mouth disease among a dairy herd in Jefferson county Saturday probably will postpone indefinitely reopening of the Bourbon stock yards here.

In Other Climates.

The middle west had a heavy fall of snow Thursday. In Nebraska it was 11 inches and in Kansas 9 inches deep.

Their Advantage.

"Yes," said the world traveler, "the Chinese make it an invariable rule to settle all their debts on New Year's day."

"So I understand," said the American host, "but, then the Chinese don't have a Christmas the week before."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Why They Never Buy Havanas.

"What kind of cigars do you wish to give your husband, madam—Havanas or domestic?"

"Oh, domestic by all means, I'm giving them to him to encourage him to spend his evenings at home, you know."—Judge.

His Hard Work.

"I want you to understand," said young Spender, "that I got my money by hard work." "Why, I thought it was left to you by your rich uncle." "So it was, but I had hard work to get it away from the lawyers."—Life.

Optimistic Thought. One's duty is to accept the challenge of the passing day.
